Museum Plans Go to the Contractors

$25,000 in the Banks; Bids to be Let August 23rd

Plans for the museum building of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society were completed yesterday, and will be delivered to contractors today. Bids will be opened on August 23rd. The contract will be taken to Austin at once for approval by the State Board of Control and filed in the office of the State Comptroller in order to guarantee the payment of the $25,000.00 appropriations granted by the last session of the legislature.

A joint luncheon was held Monday at the College for the Board of Regents of the State Teachers Colleges and of the directors of the Historical Society, at which time the detailed plans were formally adopted, and a contract signed as to the future control of the building.

L. F. Sheffy reported to the joint meeting that all of the $25,000 necessary for the building was subscribed, and all but $600 was paid in cash. This amount was borrowed at a local bank in order to close the amount which must be turned over to the Board of Control. Mr. Sheffy states that the subscriptions which he has will more than cover the $600 borrowed Monday. The money raising campaign will continue, as it will be necessary to raise at least $5,000 more for furniture and fixtures for the building.

The present unit consists of one story and a basement, 45 by 150 feet. It is to be located on the campus north of Randall Hall and face south. The main floor is composed of Pioneer Hall, Mary E. Hudspeth Room, and the Art Room. The basement contains work rooms, offices, and exhibit space. The building will be made of stone and terra cotta; decorations of cattle brands, plains animals, Indian arrows will be used. Around this there will be a motif of cactus.

The following were present at the meeting:

A. B. Mayhew, of Uvalde, chairman of the board of regents; Dr. J. A. Hill, president of the West Texas State Teachers College, of Canyon; Dr. A. W. Birdwell, president of Stephen F. Austin College, Nacogdoches; Dr. Sam H. Whitley, president of the East Texas State Teachers College, Commerce; Dr. J. C. McElhannon, dean of Sam Houston State Teachers College, Huntsville; Dr. H. W. Morelock, president of Sul Ross State Teachers College, Alpine; Dr. R. L. Marquis, president of the North Texas State Teachers College, Denton; William Z. Hays, Dallas; J. W. Fitzgerald, Tyler; J. Pattern School To Be Held Here On August 22-23

A Foundations Pattern school will be held in Canyon August 22 and 23 under the direction of Mrs. Dora R. Barnes, extension specialist in clothing from A. & M. College, according to an announcement made this week by Miss Sadie Kate Bass, county home demonstration agent.

The school will be the first of its kind for the women of Randall county as the office of demonstration agent was created only a month ago. Since this is a new office the extension department is making an effort to have all schools as early as possible so that the women may become more familiar with home demonstration work.

There will be a demonstrator from each of the nine clubs which have been organized in the county so far, in attendance at the school. These women will learn the planning of the wardrobe and will carry back the information to the members of the various clubs.

The unorganized communities who would like to have a representative at the school are asked to confer with Miss Bass on this subject. Only twelve demonstrators can be accomodated during the sessions, but as there are only nine clubs, three places are open.

The sessions will begin promptly at 8 o'clock each morning and will last throughout the day. Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock the school will be open to the public and at this time the wardrobe, as planned by the school, will be shown and discussed.

The meeting place for the school will be announced next week as plans for this feature have not been completed as yet.

Two Light Rains Fall During the Past Few Days

Light rains on Thursday and Monday brought the first moisture for the month. The rainfall of Thursday amounted to only .16 of an inch, and that of Monday totaled .27 of an inch.

These rains were local in nature, and many places of the county were not reached by the showers.

Farmers report that the row crops are suffering very greatly and that a general rain must fall in order to make much grain.

Mrs. C. W. Mays was a guest of Mrs. Eugene Blasdell in Amarillo last Sunday.

Plainview Man Is Recovering From Canyon Fall

Roy DeMent, Plainview Herald employee, who suffered injuries in a fall down the side of the Palo Duro canyon near here, Sunday, August 7, was reported to be recovering satisfactorily at a hospital in Plainview.

Mr. DeMent had been taking photographs from the edge of the canyon wall and fell over the edge when his foot slipped. He was hurled over an embankment where he fell 20 feet, striking his head on obstructions, then rolled 75 feet down the cliff side.

He was unconscious when friends reached him. It took 20 men over four hours to bring him out of the canyon to a point where an ambulance could reach him. While Mr. DeMent suffered no broken bones, he received painful cuts and bruises about the body.

The point where Mr. DeMent slipped and fell into the canyon is just outside the boundary of the Palo Duro park, 12 miles east of Canyon. He was the first person in over 65,000 who have registered at the park, to receive injuries while viewing the canyon, according to Ray V. Davis, custodian.

Mayhew, Seaman and Batchelder Program at the Rotary Club

Arthur B. Mayhew of Uvalde, past Governor of Rotary, Bishop E. C. Seaman of Amarillo and Wesley Batchelder of the College faculty gave the program Tuesday of the Canyon Rotary club. Bob Jarrett was in charge of the program.

Mr. Mayhew made a report on the international aspect of Rotary as he had viewed it at Seattle and at five meetings of Rotary International. He was impressed with the fact that Europeans were thoroughly loyal to their governments, being taught from childhood the history and the ideals of their nations. The children of Europe know more about their governments than most adults do in this country. In the international assemblies of Rotary, there is free discussion of leading questions of the day, such as tariffs, war debts and reparations. While Rotary cannot solve these problems, through study of the problems of other nations, Americans are learning more to appreciate the history and background of these nations.

Mr. Mayhew stated that Canada, where liquor is under governmental control, has the same difficulties with bootleggers as we do in this nation. Canadians will tell you that their system has not done away with bootlegging in any sense of the word.

C. Wesley Batchelder gave three readings which were greatly enjoyed.

Bishop Seaman introduced himself as the product of the common schools of Texas and of the small colleges. Young people find that their greatest inspiration comes first from their fellow students, and second, from the faculty members. Bishop Seaman asked for the appreciation of all groups of Christian people and that they recognize the faithful service which they were offering to assist the young people with their problems.

Visitors present Tuesday were: Arthur B. Mayhew of Uvalde; B. F. Anderson, Bishop Seaman, John E. Hill, Jim Williams, W. A. McIntosh, C. Cherry Blair, B. I. Barfield, all of Amarillo; Horace W. Morelock of Alpine; Joe McElhannon of Huntsville; R. L. Marquis of Denton; A. W. Birdwell of Nacogdoches; C. E. Evans of San Marcos; Carter Harter and Will Hayes of Dallas; J. W. Fitzgerald of Tyler; J. W. Shanklin, C. R. Burrow, Travis Shaw, Wesley Batchelder and Wallace R. Clark of Canyon.

SUMMER CONCERT TO BE GIVEN SATURDAY MORNING

The annual summer concert of the College Chorus and Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Wallace R. Clark, will be given at the assembly period Saturday morning, at 9:30 in the Main Auditorium of the College.

The C. V. Stanford arrangement of Tennyson's "Revenge" will be sung, with the orchestra.

The program is open to the public and townspeople are especially invited to be present.

A. B. TARWATER HERE.

A. B. Tarwater, State Representative from the Plainview district, was in the city Monday. He is in the run-off of the second primary with Judge Avery of Dimmitt. Mr. Tarwater was accompanied by Frank Day, a former student in the College.

HIGH HONORS AGAIN GO TO FULTON HERD

Tierra Blanca Jerseys Run Close Second For Month

High honors for dairy cows in the Randall County Herd Improvement Association for the month of July goes to the H. R. Fulton herd of Grade Jerseys. The cow tester's records for the month show 32 out of 39 cows in milk in that herd on the honor roll of cows making over 40 pounds of butterfat for the month. The Tierra Blanca herd of pure bred Jerseys come a close second with 31 cows on the roll out of a possible 43. The Fulton cows on the list made an average of 52 pounds of butterfat each for the month. The Tierra Blanca cows produced an average of 51.66 pounds of fat each. These two herds have been alternating in first place for the past few months. To do this they are making butterfat records not equaled by herds of this size in Texas.

The high individual cow for the month in both milk and fat production is a grade Jersey in the Fulton herd with a production of 87.6 pounds of fat from 1717 pounds of milk. In this herd is also the second and third cows for milk production and the second cow in butterfat.

The C. C. Stewart herd has 11 cows out of 15 in milk, on the honor roll with an average production of 57.7 pounds of fat each. This herd also has the honor of the highest herd average for all cows in the herd for the month of July with a herd average of 49.3 pounds of fat.

The number of cows on the monthly honor roll for the various herds follow: H. R. Fulton 32, Tierra Blanca 31, C. C. Stewart 11, Mobley's Dairy 6, J. P. Upchurch 5, J. E. Park & Son 3, and C. R. Garner 2.

NEGRO ARRESTED.

Harry McKnight, a negro, was arrested Monday by Deputy Sheriff Bob Barnett in the north part of the county while trying to pass a travelers check. He was indicted yesterday by the grand jury for theft. The checks had been stolen at Pampa, and the negro claimed that they were given to him. The case will be tried during this term of the district court.

J. W. Hammock of Sudan was here Tuesday to bring certified seed to W. H. Upchurch for re-sale to the farmers.

Rates Lowered At Dormitories For Next Year

Dr. J. A. Hill has made some drastic changes in Randall and Cousins Halls for the coming year, with the idea of enabling more students to come to college.

At Cousins Hall, board and room, if paid in advance, will be $65 for the fall quarter and $57.50 for the winter and spring quarters, or $75, $60 and $60 if paid in advance by the month.

At Randall Hall young women will be allowed the option of three plans; they may secure board and room for $54 for the fall, and $48 each for the winter and spring quarters if they pay by the quarter in advance, or $58, $51, and $51 if they pay by the month in advance. If girls prefer rooms only, these may be had for $5 each per month if two girls occupy a room, of $7.50 if one girl occupies a room. The third option is that of light housekeeping. Two girls, sharing the same bedroom, and the same kitchen facilities will pay $7.50 per person. Lights, water, gas and heat are furnished.

Notices of these cheaper rates are being sent out to parents, superintendents, and prospective students, and it is thought that the lowered rates will bring many girls to Canyon who might not otherwise be able to attend college this year.

Plan Business For the Seven Colleges in Coming Year

The annual meeting of the State Board of Regents for Teachers Colleges was held Monday and Tuesday at W. T. Business arrangements for the coming year for the seven teachers colleges were transacted in the session of the two days.

Only four members of the Board of Regents were able to attend the meeting. They are A. B. Mayhew, Uvalde, who is president; Will Hayes, Dallas; J. W. Fitzgerald, Tyler; and J. E. Hill, Amarillo. All of the presidents of the state teachers colleges were here except Dr. H. F. Estill of Sam Houston State Teachers College and he sent J. C. McElhannom as his representative. The college presidents on the campus were Dr. S. H. Whitley of E. T. S. T. C., Dr. R. L. Marquis of N. T. S. T. C., Dr. C. E. Evans of Southwest S. T. C., and H. W. Morelock of Sul Ross S. T. C., Dr. A. W. Birdwell of Stephen F. Austin S. T. C.

The three-day program for the presidents began Sunday at noon when President and Mrs. J. A. Hill entertained the college presidents with a luncheon. Following the luncheon, a meeting of the Council of Teachers College Presidents was held in which problems of the schools were discussed.

Monday at 8 o'clock the presidents met the members of the Board of Regents at the Herring Hotel for breakfast. Following the breakfast, the visitors were shown the college plant. At noon they met with the administrative officers of the college and the Board of Directors of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society and discussed the building plans of the museum. At this meeting the plans were accepted, after a report given by L. F. Sheffy on the project.

A drive to the Palo Duro canyon, together with a barbecue at the Park Monday afternoon had been planned, but was interferred with by showers. Most of the visitors had reached the park by the time the rain started to pour down. The food was packed into cars and brought to the administration building where many of the visitors were served a late supper.

President A. B. Mayhew expressed great appreciation on the part of the Regents for the entertainment which had been planned for the visitors and the activities on the part of the citizens of Canyon in showing the regents and presidents every courtesy during the two days' session here. He was sorry that all of the members of his board could not be present at the meeting. Some of the regents have never visited this section of the state.

All of the regents and the seven presidents left Tuesday night for a meeting in Austin with the State

Tax Pay Depends on Highway Bonds

Governor Asks Counties to Wait Upon Action of Legislature

With a budget for the coming year trimmed $23,454, the Commissioners' Court on Monday set the county tax rate for the coming year at $1.15 on the $100 valuation. The tax rolls will not be started however, as Governor Sterling has requested that commissioners' courts withhold the tax rates until after the special session of the legislature, hoping that the state will take over all of the road bonds which have been issued by the counties, making payment of these bonds out of the gasoline tax. Should this be done, the tax rate of Randall county will be reduced 40 cents on the $100 valuation for the coming year.

Judge S. B. Orton stated that county judges were requested to withhold the tax rates for the present time, but owing to the fact that the law requires that the rate be set at the August term of the commissioners court, the rate was passed Tuesday, but the tax rolls will be withheld until it is seen whether or not the legislature will relieve Randall county of this burden of $285,000, which would mean a reduction of 40 cents, or more than one-third of the total county tax.

Interviewed Saturday by Judge Orton, Clyde W. Warwick, state representative, called attention to the fact that the Brooks bill passed by the legislature last year by a large majority, even though there was a feeling at that time that a constitutional amendment would be necessary in order to divert the gasoline tax for the purpose of paying off the county bonds. Since that time there has been a decided sentiment in Texas for the state to assume the road bonds, stated Mr. Warwick, and even though there might be a question of the legality at this time, it is hardly likely that any one would make a test case. Governor Sterling will sponsor any kind of a law to relieve the counties of the highway bonds, which means more in the reduction of taxes than any other movement at the present time.

The following rates will prevail for the various funds for the coming year:

General, 25c on the $100 valuation.

Road and bridge, 15c.

Jury, 12c.

Court house and jail, 15c.

Road and bridge warrant sinking, 8c.

Road bonds, 40c.

The total for the budget for the coming year will be $83,527, as compared with $106,981 for the past year.

STUDY OF LOCAL TAX CONDITIONS

State Auditor Moore Lynn has just issued a report on the taxes, delinquencies, outstanding warrants and bond, and amounts of sinking funds in all counties, cities and school districts of the state of Texas which provides valuable information. This compilation was in response to a bill passed by the last session of the legislature directing the State Auditor to obtain this information.

The report reveals the fact there are about 9,000 taxing units in the state, which collected for the fiscal year 1931, a total of $149,880,675. Of this amount, $26,863,141 was for state purposes.

The report covers all of the information as to taxes in the various counties of Texas including the indebtedness per capita, the taxes collected per capita, and the assessed valuations per capita. Local officials have been studying the report carefully as it reveals interesting data regarding Randall county, as compared with other counties in this section. It is shown that Randall's debts amount to $88.74 per capita, while the average for the state is $104.13.

THE CASE OF LIQUOR.

We are about to become very prosperous, because liquor is about to be returned wholesale and retail all over the United States. Thousands of men will be put to work in the distilleries making booze; the railroads will have loads to haul, the trucks will be in such demand that new factories will open; barrel makers, and bottle factories will thrive; the government treasury will suddenly have more money than it knows what to do with. Yes, prosperity is on its way, all because booze will flow freely in the United States. So say the anti-prohibitionists.

But on the other hand, this same bunch tells that there is more booze being drunk in the United States than ever before. That all of the crime, the depression, the drouth and everything else bad has been brought about because there is prohibition, which was causing all of this booze to be consumed. Your head goes in circles when you listen to the arguments which are presented without facts, reason or logic. They say they want booze, but not the open saloon. In this they seek to deceive the people.

Henry Ford may not be as smart as the antis, but he has served notice that so far as he is concerned, he does not intend to endanger the lives of his workmen by letting them tank up on booze and work in his factory. "A drunken man ought not to be at the mercy of machinery, nor machinery at the mercy of a drinking man," is his verdict.

And the public, when it buys an automobile, has the right to demand that its parts were manufactured by sober men, who have all of their powers of thought when they make those parts, or assemble the car. The public does not allow a drunken driver the right of the highways and streets, because he is a menace to life and property. The drunken man in the factory who turns out defective products is likewise a menace to society, and Henry Ford knows this.

The public will refuse to ride with a drunken chauffeur, or a drunken railroad engineer, or a drunken mariner. The public does not wish to buy dry goods or groceries from a drunken clerk; or have a prescription filled by a drunken druggist. The public demands sobriety on the part of its teachers and preachers and public officials, although sometimes the ballots favor those who are not sober in deed and thought.

If liquor should return, let every business man consider the results. There may be a lot of liquor in use today, too much no doubt, but if the liquor traffic is legalized, liquor would be in direct competition with every phase of business in Canyon. The grocer, dry goods man, druggist, lumberman, every other line of business would find liquor as a real competitor. He would not appreciate that.

And another thing in which Canyon is interested. We have heard a number of times lately that Canyon has the reputation of having more liquor for sale in this city than any town of its size on the Plains. If that is true it is a disgrace to the citizens of this town. Canyon offers educational advantages to the young people of West Texas and invites them to come here to improve their minds. If booze is offered freely, and without restrictions in Canyon, a lot of Canyon people who travel under the guise of respectibility should be in the penitentiary, and Canyon's good name not be redeemed until this gang is in the penitentiary. If the above statement is true, it challenges every citizen of Canyon to get behind the officers, who will enforce the law, or kick out of office those who will not enforce the law, and clean up the town. These are plain words but we are indignant to hear the good name of Canyon questioned by people from the outside who said that Canyon had this reputation. If it is true, there is just one way to correct the evil—break up this booze gang, and put them in the penitentiary where they belong.

QUESTION OF $285,000.00.

Let us lay aside all talk about Fergusonism, Sterlingism, fourth term, second term, the Langhorne case, pardon records, bank failures and the various other what-nots which have arisen in the Governor's race, and look at the question as concerns Randall County.

Do the voters of Randall county want the State of Texas to relieve them of a debt of $285,000.00?

If they do, they will vote for Governor Sterling.

If they wish to pay off this debt themselves, they will vote for Ferguson.

If they wish to see their taxes lowered at least 40 cents on the $100 valuation or one-third of the county taxes, they will vote for Sterling.

The question is simply this: Governor Sterling advocates, will sponsor and make effective the plan to retire outstanding road bonds from the gasoline tax. This would lift $285,000 burden from Randall county, and AT ONCE lower the county tax 40 cents. One third reduction means a lot to the taxpayer.

Jim Ferguson says to use a portion of the gasoline tax for the general fund purposes, which would leave the highway bonds for the counties to pay off, and would not help the average taxpayer one cent on his tax bill, but would benefit the big tax payer a whole lot. Jim Ferguson adroitly seeks to fool the little man with vague promises, but at the same time advocates a bill which will not help the little man one cent, but will play into the hands of the big fellow.

Governor Sterling is not trying to fool the people. He plainly states his case, showing how the little taxpayer will be benefitted, and leaves the case in his hands. Some voters evidently like to be fooled, judging from the results of the first primary, but now that every county is faced with the dollars and cents proposition in the second primary, the voters should carefully consider what their vote means in the governor's race.

The voters of Randall county have their choice: Either vote for Sterling and let the state pay off the $285,000 bonds; or vote for Ferguson, and pay off the bonds themselves. It is a plain case. Just take your choice, because it means dollars and cents—money that will either have to be paid out of your pockets, or money that you will not have to dig up.

TRUCK REGULATION.

To the Panhandle Herald:

The following is an editorial which will be printed in the Canyon News this week. I ask that you print it in the Herald.

My attention has been called to statements in the Panhandle Herald of the past two weeks that I was defeated for the State Legislature because I voted to regulate the trucks and busses on the highways. The activity against me was directed by a truck operator, who evidently thought that he should be free to use the highways as he pleased, regardless of cost to the public both as to construction of the highways and the cost of life entailed with the unrestricted use of trucks. If my vote for regulating the trucks caused my defeat, I most graciously accept the verdict and am proud that I cast that vote. If the winner of this contest believes that the people of this district want to see the trucks and busses turned loose on the highways, I ask that as his first act in the 43rd legislature he introduce a bill repealing this legislation. It would be an interesting test to see what the people really think of the bill to protect the highways.

I explained at Panhandle that the truck bill did not suit West Texas legislators, and we attempted to liberalize the bill for the benefit of the farmers and stockmen. We tried to get the load limit increased; and were assured that the $3.00 chauffeur's licenses would not apply to farmers. The latter provision was one of those unfortunate things which will get by occasionally, even when the attorney general's department advises that the bill is correctly drawn.

For the information of the people who are not acquainted with the facts, let me call your attention to some facts: 300 innocent users of the Texas highways were killed by trucks in 1931. This represents the cost of human lives for transporting 386,208 tons of freight.

247 private citizens, employees and trespassers were killed by the railroads in 1931. This represents the cost of human lives for transporting 7,773,985 tons of freight, as well as passengers, over Texas railroads.

The radios command attention. It costs one life to transport 1287 tons of freight by truck; it costs one life to transport 31,474 tons of freight by rail. Truck transportation, figured in human lives, is more than 24 times as expensive as railroad transportation.

I would ask your readers to see what the people of Plainview think about unrestricted use of the highways by trucks, in view of the fact that four fine citizens of that town have paid with their lives through carelessness on the part of truckmen.

I am not fighting for the railroads, and have no more interest in them than any other citizen. I am wondering what would happen to your city, your schools and your county if all of the taxes paid by railroads should be taken away. While the railroads must abide by the strictest regulations, I am wondering if your people wish to see the trucks allowed to run as they please without regulations.

According to figures compiled at Austin the railroads transported freight at a money cost averaging one cent per ton mile. Trucks transported freight at a money cost fluctuating between five and ten cents per one mile. Had the trucks carried all of the Texas freight in 1931, the cost would have soared from 500 to 1000 percent.

I am thoroughly convinced that truck facilities are absolutely necessary for West Texas, and have no fight to make upon any individual or company, but I do maintain that the public who builds the highways have the right to regulate these trucks and have the right to say who shall haul freight on the highways, and under what conditions the trucks shall operate so as to minimize the dangers.

The Win Over Vines and Allison That Kept the Davis Cup in France Is the Last Gallant Gesture of Jean Borotra, Popular International Tennis Veteran

BY PHILIP MARTIN

JEAN BOROTRA! Long may the Bounding Basque bound and rebound for France o'er the courts of international tennis.

Pas possible! The years are catching up with the most popular of international tennis players. He was the hero of the recent Davis Cup wars, yes. But it was the last gallant gesture of a veteran who prefers to sit back and watch younger and faster men perform.

Truly, Borotra kept the Davis Cup in France. He was considered an easy victim for the two American youngsters, Vines and Allison. Instead, he rose above his former power and rushed them off the courts. Not without a struggle, though. Not until he had called upon his best tennis in a decade of play did the bounding Frenchman turn back the young Americans.

Borotra is 34 years old. He is through now, if they will let him retire.

"It's all settled," Borotra said two years ago. "I will stand aside and let Cochet and the younger players carry on. LaCoste will be back to help. I am getting too old for Davis Cup play."

That was two years ago. La Coste did not return to form. The youngsters failed to develop. And France drafted Borotra to help Cochet.

BOROTRA was born near Biarritz . . . he has one sister and one brother . . . both interested in sports . . . Jean is not married . . . because he hasn't found any one to marry, yet. . . . He was in college at 17 . . . but the German invasion interrupted his studies. . . . France gave him the Croix de Guerre . . . and then he went back to college . . . he graduated from L'Ecole Polytechnique and Licencie en Droit . . . but it was tough after having been so long at the front.

Sports called Borotra in 1920 . . . an army job as chief officer in charge of sports with the French Army on the Rhine. . . . He saw America first in 1922 . . . as a member of the French Davis Cup team . . . and because he thought it would be his last visit, he stayed a month longer than the rest of the team. . . . On that trip, he saw his first automatic pump. . . . He wondered why there were none in France. . . . He became interested. . . . He has been a pump salesman ever since.

Not until 1923 did Borotra record his first triumph . . . in the French indoor championships. . . . He then became the first Frenchman to win the British title at Wimbledon in 1924. . . . From that time on, his successes have been too numerous to mention.

Ready to slap over a fast one is Jean Borotra, above, French veteran who, two years ago, stepped from the ranks to give the young ones a chance. Drafted by his country to help Cochet in the 1982 Davis Cup play, he beat Vines and Allison to keep the cup in La Patrie.

Do Not Thnik of Your Electric Bill

IN TERMS OF A LIGHT BILL.

It is not!

You wouldn't speak of your cost of drugs as a part of your grocery bill—

Neither would you include your cost of entertainment as part of your grocery bill.

LIGHTING represents only ONE SMALL PART of the average family's use of electricity. The other uses are many, even in the smallest of homes.

The combined cost of these comfort - making conveniences is less than 10c a day for the average family.

TEXAS UTILITIES COMPANY.

"YOUR ELECTRIC SERVANT"

THE COMMERCIAL USE OF TEXAS HIGHWAYS IS A PRIVILEGE, NOT A RIGHT

● The highways of Texas are the property of its citizens. They constitute a system of nearly 200,000 miles of road of which 20,000 miles are designated as State highways and the remainder are county roads. All types of road are represented in this system, less than 5% have so-called "permanent" surface.

The total cost of these highways is unknown but it amounts to many hundred million dollars. From 1917 to 1930, inclusive, counties and road districts of the State issued $243,592,834 in bonds for the construction and improvement of roads and bridges. In the two-year period ending August 31, 1930, the State Highway Commission expended $89,032,825, of which $22,488,426 was for maintenance of the State highways.

In view of these tremendous costs the preservation of our highways from rapid wear and destruction is a matter of very vital interest to their owners, viz., the public. It is especially important that they be made to outlast the life of the bonds, which run from 20 to 30 years.

The use of the public highways for commercial purposes is not a right but a privilege which may be withheld or granted subject to such restrictions, regulations and charges as the Legislature may see fit to impose. Such regulations are intended to promote safety, preserve the highways and safeguard the interests of the public.

Texas Railroads, which pay the entire cost of construction and maintenance of their own roadbeds and, in addition, make substantial contributions to the cost of Texas highways, are thoroughly regulated with respect to their services, rates, methods and practices. There is no good reason why commercial users of the highways, built and maintained at the expense of the public, should not likewise be regulated to such extent as the public interest requires and pay such charges as will represent proper compensation for the privileges granted them.

● The statutes governing highway transportation as enacted by the Forty-second Legislature represent the wishes of the citizens of this State and express their desire to give equal rights to all and special privileges to none. These statutes should be given a fair trial and their value ascertained. Unless this is done, a chaotic condition in transportation as a whole will surely ensue.

SUSIE'S Musings

"Adventure may be thrilling," says our young Philosopher across the street, "but a life of adventure, footloose and fancy free, is not always a happy one. Sometimes, looking for happiness is the poorest way of finding it.

"Happiness," she continued, "is our shadow-self that makes its home with us if we are good, but leaves if we are bad. It is elusive when looked for, but comes and sits upon the doorstep of those who are so busy making a living and doing things for other people they have no time to begin an active search for pleasure. Happiness is easily frightened. Self pity is its natural enemy. If we haven't time to think of ourselves, we usually haven't time to be unhappy."

Friendship is a peculiar relationship, isn't it? You meet someone whose appearance outwardly is the same as many others who toil and moil on this old earth. There is a chance remark, the inflection of a phrase, a glance that captures the fancy and a friendship is born that may last for a lifetime and be a thing of "beauty and a joy forever." Friendship cannot be bestowed at will even though we wish it. It just happens. If properly nutured it may become a powerful influence with the strength to build new lives upon the wrecks of the old, and to ease the spirit upon occasions when even love must stand by helpless.

In their ability to follow directions, a boy and a dog are very much alike. Each are impressionistic, each can be molded into whatever the Molder may desire. As the dog, with proper coaching, may be taught to retrieve a stick, so can the boy be taught to meet the little worries of boyhood bravely and later to cope with the issues of manhood with chin up and eyes alight. It is well that youth is strong and willing for we of tomorrow shall have need of strength and the will to do.

LYCEUM COURSE ANNOUNCED FOR WINTER TERM

LORADO TAFT AND MARGARET WOLLMAN ARE ATTRACTIONS

Never before in the history of the college has a lyceum course of such excellence been scheduled as the program which has been arranged for the next regular session, and which was announced last week by Wallace R. Clark.

During the fall term two programs will be given, perhaps the most outstanding programs. These programs will consist of a lecture given by William Chamberlain, for ten years press representative in Russia, and an authority on the inside workings of the Soviet Russian government; and a lecture by Lorado Taft, who is perhaps the greatest living sculptor and artist in America.

In the winter term the program will be of a more varied nature. William L. Finley, naturalist, explorer, and big game hunter will deliver his interesting lecture on "Getting Familiar with Mountain Lions." Mr. Clark states that W. T. is very fortunate in securing during the winter quarter direct from Berlin, the famous Margaret Wallman, the greatest living exponent of the interpretative dance.

The last offerings of the Lyceum course, which will be given in the spring quarter consist of the well known London String Quartet and song recital given by Allen McQuahae, tenor from the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra.

The exact dates for the various presentations have not been decided as yet, but will be announced some time in the near future.

English Journal Accepts Article By Dr. Darnall

Dr. F. M. Darnall, head of the English Department, has been notified of the acceptance of an article on Jonathan Swift by The English Journal.

Dr. Darnall has studied Swift for several years.

"Swift Ambitious" is an attempt to refute the old idea that Swift was selfish and ambitious for his own ends. This article will be published in the English Journal sometime this fall.

"Swift's Beliefs in Immortality" will be published in Modern Notes in December. "Traditional Notions of Jonathan Swift," another article written by Dr. Darnall, was published three years ago in the English Journal, and an article on the "Religion of Jonathan Swift" was published in the Journal of English and German Phonology last July.

Hot Beds--Location, Construction and Use

By Shepard Wells Moore in Poultry, Garden and Home.

The importance of hot beds is recognized by every commercial gardener in the land. They would not attempt to produce paying crops of many vegetables without the use of hot beds and cold frames. Hot beds could be used to great advantage on every farm, as well as in the suburban garden and often in the city garden. Vegetables that farm and surburban families often do without could be grown and enjoyed a greater part of the year by the use of the hot bed and cold frame.

When locating the hot bed, some thought should be given to the exposure. It should be borne in mind that the amount of growth the plants will make and the sturdiness of the plants depend a great deal on the amount of sunlight they get. As the stalky plant is the one that stands transplanting best, a south or southeast exposure should be chosen for best results.

A successful grower of plants finds it necessary to visit his hot beds frequently during the changeable weather of early spring, for plants must have water, light and air if they are to make satisfactory growth. A shift of the wind from one quarter to another may mean a change of ventilation, as the wind should pass over and not under the sash. For example, if the wind is from the west the east side of the sash should be raised. A hot sun may mean more ventilation, while a sudden drop in temperature may necessitate the closing down of all sash and possibly the use of shutters or mats. So, the more convenient the bed is to the dwelling the easier it will be to care for it.

Convenience to water supply should not be overlooked, as hot beds require a great deal of water and if it is not convenient, the plants are sometimes allowed to suffer. Care should be taken to have all water pipes and spigots well protected from frost, as it is often necessary to use water during the season of cold nights.

When considering the construction of the hot bed one of the first things to be decided is the style or kind that will best serve the purpose. There are several kinds in general use: the pit, where heat is furnished by fermenting manure placed in a pit; the surface bed, where heat is supplied from manure placed on the surface of the ground; steam heated, or where heat is furnished by means of flues, etc. The two that we will consider now are the pit and surface bed.

The pit bed should be dug eighteen inches deep and walled or lined with lumber, brick or concrete. Brick gives a somewhat drier wall than concrete, though both have given good results. Lumber is rather temporary, as it will soon rot out.

Where the climate is not too severe, or where drainage for pits is not practical, surface beds are used. The manure is placed on top of the ground to the depth of ten to sixteen inches (depending upon the amount of heat required) and the portable frames are then put in place. The outside is banked up to the sash with manure to help retain the heat formed by the manure below.

These two styles of construction have their advantages and disadvantages. An advantage of the surface bed is that it may easily be moved if wanted in another place the next season, while the pit bed cannot. On the other hand, surface beds require much more manure than the pit.

Some of the advantages of pit construction are: first, saving of manure; second, permanent location with water supply, etc.; third, winter use (to be described later).

Where pits are used, permanent frames will be found the cheapest in the end. The north side of the frame should stand twelve inches above grade line, the south side six inches. This gives a good pitch for the sash, which is very necessary. Care should be exercised in fitting a sash frame on the wall to make it tight and at the same pitch as the sash will have, or there will be a short space of contact of the sash on the sash frame, thus making the beds much colder than if the sash fit or lay flat over the whole surface of the frame. No attempt should be made to use the sash on a wall without the sash frame. This frame should be made of one-and-a-half or two-inch lumber and as wide as the wall is thick and should be laid in cement so as to become a part of the wall. The cross bars should be two by three inches, with a one-half inch strip in the center to divide the sash. This strip should stand even with top of sash.

Frames for surface beds may be of one-inch or 1 1-4 inch lumber, and built to accommodate four standard sash so that twelve-foot lumber may be used. The cross bars should be dove-tailed in the frames to make them as rigid as possible, as they will have to be handled several times during the season. A twelve-inch and six-inch board on the north side of the frame and a twelve-inch board on the south will make a frame with a good pitch.

The four-sash bed or frame has been found to be the most practical for many reasons. One is handling the sash. When frames are ten, twenty or more sash long it is a lot of work to carry and stack sash at each end; and if left anywhere on the frame, the shade is detrimental to the plants. While, if the frames have four sash with space two and one-half feet between them for a walk, two may be taken to each end and placed on the end walls over the walk, where they will be handy for replacing when the time comes.

The standard three-by-six-inch sash, which carries three runs of ten-by-twelve-inch glass, or eighteen panes to the sash, has been found very satisfactory. A 1-4-inch iron rod across the sash about midway, with the head and nut countersunk will add much to the life of the sash.

Horse manure is preferable. Poultry and sheep manure may be used, but are more expensive. Cow manure will not give good results. For best results, one-third of the bulk should be litter of some kind, straw or forest leaves. Otherwise, the mass may fail to heat or the heat may be too violent and continue for only a short period. The manure should be collected ten days or two weeks before the beds are wanted for use. The manure should be put in a compact pile. We like to make the pile at least four feet high and four feet wide, with straight sides and flat top. It should be well tramped, and, if dry, a thorough soaking with hot water will hasten fermentation. When the pile begins to steam, which should take place in three or four days, it should be restacked, taking care to put the outside of the old pile in the center of the new one. When it heats again, the pit should be filled.

In filling the pit, care should be taken to get the pit filled evenly and solid. This can best be done by putting the manure in in layers all over the bed and tramping each layer, watching the corners and edges to see that they are full. When the pit is full, five or six inches of soil should be added. The bed is now ready for the sash, which should be put in place and the bed given time to warm up.

After the hot beds have been used for forcing plants for early spring planting, later in the season they should serve a good purpose as cold frames for the hardening off of plants that require a longer season than our climate affords. Egg plant, cauliflower and celery are in this class. A late spring crop of head lettuce will prove satisfactory.

Crops may be developed in these cold frames during the summer. Cucumbers and celery may be grown in this way, the latter giving splendid returns where the garden soil is not well adapted to growing celery.

During the late fall, good crops of head or leaf lettuce, endive, parsley, etc., may be grown with little extra labor or expense.

After these crops are out and the weather is severe, the beds or cold frames afford good storage space for winter roots, cabbage and celery. They are especially valuable along this line because of the convenience of getting at such things when wanted.

The old hot bed, or cold-frame, (as we call it after the heat of the manure is spent) serves a good purpose in winter, as space to carry over hardy plants as pansy, violet and parsley, as well as hardwood cuttings—gooseberry, currant, grape and shrubs.

Hot beds and cold frames should have protection in cold weather other than that afforded by the sash. Mats of some kind as well as shutters should be used. The mats may be made of rye straw that has been cut and carefully handled for this purpose—that is cut just before the grain is formed, then spread out and cured; after which it may be made up. If the straw cannot be obtained and the finances will not permit of the purchase of mats, old sacks may be opened and spread down two or three thicknesses and large enough to cover a four-sash bed. These layers can then be tacked with cord about as a comfort would be. A strip of wood should be fastened on each end so as to hold the mat down when in use. This strip is also very convenient to roll the mat up on when it is removed from the sash. When mats of any kind are used, it will be found advantageous to use shutters over them, as this will keep them dry and will add years to their usefulness.

Shutters are necessary even if mats are not used, for they protect the sash from storms as well as the plants from cold. Shutters should be made from light lumber so they may be handled easily. Ceiling lumber has been found very satisfactory. Shutters the size of the sash, three by six, are convenient. The cleats that go across should be on the outer or top side so that the under side may fit close down on the mat or sash. Shutters should be used in place of loose lumber, which keeps out neither rain nor cold.

THE SEASONS

By Hubert Biggers

Spring is like youth
So fickle and gay
With cloudy days and sunny
All along the way.

But it takes rain and sunshine
To wake the sleeping world.
It starts the birds to singing,
And the flowers are unfurled.

Then comes the heat of Summer
Scorching hill and plain.
The corn is growing taller,
And golden is the grain.

The days are long and hot
And the farmer has no will,
But he views a plenteous harvest
Waiting for a hungry mill.

The Autumn then comes
With his touches of gold,
He whispers a warning
That the days are growing cold.

Jack Frost soon approaches
With patches of white.
He makes the leaves crinkle
As he creeps in at night.

Then Old Man Winter
Stalks in the rear
To see what has happened
Through all the past year.

But winter may conceal
What the other seasons show
By neatly tucking them away
Under a blanket of snow.

SUN WORSHIPER

By Wayne Griffitts.

"Until I surprised him
In pagan ceremony
With obelisks of golden motes,
He was the glory, lived for
In slow days of my old years.

"Mortons, with cap and baugle
Were not many and this one
Crumpled like shattered crystal
With life a chapped cable
Knotted with the unfinished years.

"The waiting was not prolix
For his quick young blood
Fumbled the sun-flung bars
With crimson satin gloves
As all light went—(back)."

Fire Destroys Barn.

A cattle barn 50x60 was completely destroyed by fire on the Pronger Bros. Ranch south of Stratford last Thursday night, about 9 o'clock. The fire was attributed to spontaneous combustion which broke out in a large box nailed on the side of the barn where a miscellaneous assortment of articles usually found around a barn were stored.

No livestock was lost but 1500 bundles of feed was burned in the barn. The total loss was around $2000.00 with no insurance. The barn will be rebuilt practically as it was before the fire. A large crowd of people from Stratford and the surrounding country drove out to render any help they could.

The Stratford fire truck made a run to the fire and with the use of chemicals and water from a large tank kept the fire from spreading to other buildings. Fire Chief Frank Smith, Joe Billington, Archie Arnold and Lloyd Brannon made the run with the truck and stayed until morning, watching that the fire did not spread from the slow burning feed to other buildings on the ranch.—Stratford Star.

J. Posey shooting a 67 defeated Gaines, delivering the low score for the day. Pitman won from Cope; Gamewell lost to Roden, while Craig subdued Fox on the 19th hole. Mosely was no match for Neff, losing 6 and 5. J. Clark lost to Reeves; Bryant lost to Bickell on the 19th hole, while Brown was losing to A. Foster 1 up on the 18th. Duflot defeated Phillips and W. Savage bowed to Marrs; Patton won from Mickle; Prichard lost to Rice; Hartman registered a win over Munson; Wooten lost to Downs; Kleinschmidt defeated A. Posey, and Gano shut Estes out on the 15th green. Walsh won from Robinson; Davis lost to Fritz; Sanders was defeated by M. Pittman and Terry lost to C. Posey.

CANNING HINTS

Editor's Note—These recipes for canning are given by Miss Sadie Kate Bass, home demonstration agent for Randall county, and are especially seasonable for use at this time of the year. It is suggested that they be clipped and placed in your recipe cabinet for reference now and in the future.)

Grape Juice

3 gallons grape juice (strained) 4 quarts sugar.

Pick and wash fresh grapes, place in a large enameled kettle and just cover with water. Cook until the grapes are tender and the skins broken. Strain through a heavy flannel bag. Combine sugar and grape juice and boil 30-35 minutes. Seal while juice is boiling hot in glass bottles, jars or earthen jugs which have been thoroughly sterilized.

Clean the outside of the containers and use small green label, placing same one-fourth of an inch from bottom of the jar and on the side if earthen jugs are used. Cork the jugs and use green sealing wax for sealing cork and screw top containers.

Ripe Grape Marmalade

(To utilize pulp left over from grape juice.) 3 quarts strained grape pulp, 1 quart sugar.

After the juice has been strained from the grapes, force the pulp through a colander—using a wooden potato masher. A potato ricer is also excellent for this purpose. An even mixture is desired. Combine sugar and grape pulp. Place in an enameled kettle and cook until thick. Fill sterilized 2, 5 or 8 ounce glass standard containers or ½ pint glass jars, clean and label jars before storing in a cool, dark place.

Green Grape Marmalade

5 pounds green wild grapes (seeded) ½ cup water, 3 3-4 pounds sugar.

Select only the fresh, crisp wild grapes which are fully grown and yet green. If they have begun to soften or color, it is too late. Halve and seed the grapes, using a silver fruit knife or stainless steel knife. Weigh grapes and sugar and place in an enameled lined kettle. Add the water to start steam, and boil covered about one half hour. Heat rather slowly at first, until the juice flows freely. Stir frequently. When about the thickness of preserves pour into sterilized containers. This product may jelly and the little globules retain their shape. Standard 5 and 8 ounce containers may be used for this purpose. Seal, clean and label jars before storing in a cool, dark place. Place the small green label 1-4 inch from the bottom of the jar. This is a mixture between a jelly and a jam. It is especially good as a meat accompaniment.

Hoover "Front Porch" Drive, Roosevelt Nation Tour, to Feature Campaign

WITH the activities of the 1932 election campaign almost under way, it appears certain that President Hoover's efforts will be of the "front porch" variety, whereas the plans of Governor Roosevelt contemplate a nation-wide tour which may take him as far as the Pacific coast.

Indications are that the president may not leave the capital at all, except possibly to visit one or two large nearby cities. And, in this policy, he is only following precedent. In late years, it has come to be the practice of presidents up for re-election to stay at home during the second campaign.

There is another circumstance which may have dictated Hoover's stay-at-home policy. During this era of national and international stress, a favorable impression may be created among the people if the chief executive disdains barnstorming tactics to stick on the job, battling with the nation's vital problems.

With a country-wide radio broadcast by Governor Roosevelt from Columbus, O., on Aug. 20, followed by a speech at Seagirt, N. J., Aug. 27, and one at Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 8, the Democratic campaign gets well under way. Early September will see the Rooseveltian swing to the far west.

Neither the Republican campaign, inaugurated with the Aug. 11 radio acceptance speech of President Hoover and that of Vice President Curtis on Aug. 18, nor the Democratic campaign, is expected to be as extensive as those of previous years, because of meager campaign funds. Party "angels," affected by business conditions, have been quite reluctant about untying their purse strings.

But while the state of each party's bank account prevents the terrific splurging of other years in brass bands, buttons, banners and other forms of publicity, yet there promises to be no lack of color in the current campaign. The issues at stake, especially those dealing with the economic and prohibition situation, are too vital to each voter.

The record of the Hoover administration during the depression undoubtedly will play a prominent part in both campaigns. The Republican speakers may point with pride to their Farm Board, Reconstruction Finance Program and other relief measures, and outline their future plans for economic rehabilitation. The Roosevelt backers, on the other hand, will, it is predicted, hold the Hoover administration responsible for present conditions and attack it for its failure to provide legislation to solve the pressing economic problems.

In charge of the Roosevelt drive is James A. Farley, former Manhattan politician and chairman of the Democratic National Committee. Governor Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts, and William G. McAdoo are expected to lend helping hands. Everett Sanders, former secretary to President Coolidge and chairman of the Republican National Committee, heads the Hoover forces.

A QUESTION which will gain increasing importance during the campaign deals with the next Senate—whether the Democrats will gain clear control of the body for the first time since the Wilson administration. Confidence that they will is expressed in certain Democratic quarters in the capital.

With 48 Republicans, 47 Democrats and one Farmer-Laborite in the Senate, the balance of power there has been extremely close. And but a slight trend toward the Democrats in the fall elections would give them the majority, as 34 Senate seats, including 18 now held by Republicans, will be filled at the polls.

Comedy Play to Be Last in Lyceum Course This Term

On August 17th there will be given the last lyceum number of the summer term in the college auditorium, a play entitled, "The Heart of Paddy-Whack." This production is a striking fantastic comedy written by Rachel Crothers who has had at least one success every theatrical season on Broadway.

The play is costumed in the year 1830, but it is of modern writing and Irish dialogue that sparkles with its humor. It is a whimsical comedy that is laid in "Old Ireland" with a quaint mixture of genuine folk-comedy and sentimental drama.

The characters are all individual ones and are so interesting that they will endear themselves into the hearts of the audience. The cast is of distinguished excellence with Annita Tully, Gene Bergmann, Nat Wade, Polly Vaughan, John Williams, Betty Mack, and Junior Williams.

The company is now on its southern tour and will arrive in Canyon sometime Tuesday evening. The lyceum number the following evening will be the last one of the season, and will undoubtedly be of great interest to the student body.

Women who patronize Conoco Service Stations are delighted with the courtesy and helpfulness of Conoco salesmen. There is nothing forward or obtrusive about their service, but it has the little touches of respect and thoroughness that make it pleasing.

Conoco men always see that your windshield is polished clean, that your tires are checked accurately and that the radiator is filled . . . without splashing. They are glad to furnish battery water, if you desire.

Women are especially pleased with the spotless, plainly marked Conoco rest-rooms which are available for them.

Women who are traveling by car find Conoco service invaluable. At any Conoco station they can learn the condition of near-by roads, receive accurate mileage and route information, obtain dependable road maps and authentic details about local hotels, camps, sports and sources of supplies. The Conoco man will check packages and arrange to handle mail and telegrams.

All of these services are free, of course; not only free, but rendered with a spirit that leaves no doubt that the Conoco man is eager to be helpful.

Burton Rounds Out Twelfth Year at W. T. This Summer

By Jim Crowder

On September 1, Coach S. D. Burton will begin his 12th year as athletic director at West Texas. For the first four years he was head coach of all sports. In the fall of '25 he surrendered football and baseball, and devoted his full time to basketball and track, and to the organization of the Physical Education Department.

This department now offers a course leading to the B. A. or B. S. degree in Physical Education. "We encourage but a few men to take their major work in this field," said Coach Burton, "although we now have about 15 majors. We believe that in most instances it is better for the major work to be in some other field and the minor be taken in Physical Education," continued the coach.

When Coach Burton came to West Texas in the fall of 1921, the athletic department was still in in its swaddling clothes. Very few college teams had been met in any of the sports. The chief competition being that of the high schools of this section. Since his debut here only college teams have been played in all sports, and the development made speaks for the success of the department.

In 11 seasons, the West Texas Buffalo basketball team has played a total of 233 basketball games and 199 of these have been put in the win column. The college has been a member of the T. I. A. A. for 10 years and has been basketball champion six of these years, winning in 1924, 1927, 1928, 1930, 1931, and 1932. And the 1933 team gives promise of being the greatest team of all time for the Buffs.

In the first four years the football teams were developed from a high school to college class. The team of 1923 ranks as one of the very best, if not the best ever developed at West Texas. From 1925 to 1930, inclusive, football continued to develop under the leadership of Eckhardt, Jones and Reeds. When Coach Reeds resigned in the summer of 1931 to accept the position of Athletic Director and Head Coach at Edmond, Oklahoma, Coach Burton, after being petitioned by the football squad to do so, again assumed command of the football team.

His team of 1931 equalled the record of any West Texas team; six games were won, three were lost. Not an out of state team scored on the Thundering Herd. The team of '32 promises to be the best West Texas has ever put on the field. A very ambitious schedule has been arranged and the team has a wonderful opportunity to show its wares against the best teams in the country.

In track, Coach Burton has never had enough material to develop an all around team, but he has developed some of the best individuals in the entire southwest. "Bud" Bagwell and "Taho" Lowes still hold T. I. A. A. records in the half mile and pole vault, respectively.

When asked as to his manner of developing championship teams in basketball Coach Burton replied, "First every man on the squad must love the game. Then they do not need training rules, they will make their own. Every man on the squad must love every other man on the squad. Then we try to learn the fundamentals of the game—then team work.

"My boys play to win—we believe that one of the greatest lessons to be learned any place is learned, or should be learned at least, in athletics and that is to never give up. An athlete must have a fighting heart. He must fight until the last whistle has blown, and if he is behind then congratulate the opponents. But, feel deep down in his heart that he couldn't do it again."

Coach Burton's teams is a monument to his character and convictions. He believes, and his men under him believe that anything less than one's very best is not acceptable.

"Our teams and individuals are praised more for something done that has changed the tide from defeat to victory. When really the boys fight their hearts out more and more deserving of praise to a greater extent in defeat," said the Big Coach when meditating on his experiences.

So, Coach S. D. Burton, than whom there is no greater, has developed some of the greatest basketball teams in the world.

To Mr. Morelock and Mr. Marquis the visit to Canyon was almost a home-coming, for both of them found many friends eager to welcome them. Mr. Marquis was for eight years head of the biology department in the college here. He was always much interested in having Canyon develop a real sense of sanitation, and the general prevalence of clean premises in the town goes back to his efforts during the early years of the college.

Mr. Morelock was formerly head of the English department, leaving Canyon in 1923 to become president of the Sul Ross State Teachers College at Alpine. Students who sat in Mr. Morelock's classes declare that he is the best English teacher in Texas, and they have followed his success with much interest.

THE COME BACK OF THE DOVE

All College Play Night To Be Held Friday Evening

For the fourth time, W. T. will have an all college play night Friday evening at 7:30 on the athletic field with the Palo Duro Outing club sponsoring it. The purpose of the play night is to help the students get acquainted in an informal way.

The evening's entertainment will open with a grand march led by the faculty in which the entire group will participate. Following this, outdoor games will be played. The plan, according to Johnnie Plaster, chairman of the committee in charge, is to divide the group into four rings. One group will play ball games, one group ring games, one group old time dances, and still another group will play quieter games. Throughout the evening the college band will play.

Several of the ex-student county organizations will put on stunts. Lemonade will be served.

The Outing Club executive committee which is in charge of the arrangements for the evening is composed of Johnnie Plaster, Mary Ellen Willoughby, Mattie Jordon, Bruce Cleland, Esther Reeves, and Winnie Ellis.

These play nights originated last fall with a get-acquainted night. Another was sponsored on April Fool's Day. The last play night was given during the last six weeks period. This will be the last play night for this summer.

All students are urged to be on the athletic field at 7:30 Friday evening.

Puts Window in Cow's Side

In order to study the effects of various foods on the digestion of cattle, Dr P L. Clausen of North St. Paul, Minn., put a window in the side of a Jersey cow through which he can watch her digestion. The operation consisted of cutting a hole one and a half inches by three in the hide, making a similar-sized opening in the stomach, sewing the flap of the stomach tissues to the opening in the hide, and then affixing a window framed in silver. The cow felt no discomfort during the operation, performed with a local anesthetic. Dr. Clausen and the window are shown above.

Former Student Wins Recognition; Engineer, Boxer

J. Harold Shanklin, a former student of W. T., won recognition in boxing and engineering at Leland Stanford University, Palo Alto, California, where he recently received his Bachelor's degree in Civil Engineering.

Shanklin is a member of the Stanford Chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers. He is also a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity at the University.

Known on the West Texas campus for his boxing ability, it is interesting to notice that Shanklin gained recognition in boxing at Leland Stanford. He made the "Varsity" boxing team and won two University championships. He was given the Gene Tunney award for the most valuable boxer in his weight.

At present Shanklin is an employ of the Texas State Highway Department and is located in Amarillo.

NOTICE

At the county agent's office in the court house Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock and again at 4, we will give demonstrations showing how to prepare "home made" nicotine dust for the control of plant lice on vine crops, such as cucumbers, melons, etc.

We are doing this each Saturday in August because of the increased interest in gardens and the control of garden insect pests.

Jewels, Once Luxury, Now Part of Frock

SECURING RIGHT EFFECT NECESSITATES WISE SELECTION OF NECK, WRIST AND BELT ADORNMENTS TO MATCH SUITS

BY HARRIET

Buying jewelry used to be a luxury but it isn't any more. Novelty jewelry has reached the stage where it is merely part of the costume. Instead of a row of buttons on a frock, for instance, the couturier is just as likely to suggest that you wear a string of beads.

But in order to achieve the right effect, it is necessary to choose wisely.

Brown and beige are playing leads in the new fall color ensemble. There are warm, glowing shades that suggest firelight on dusky leaves and woodland roads and other romantic moments. Clips that feature the topaz have appeared in order to make brown dresses sparkle a little bit more. The cowl neckline, which is going to be as splendid this season as it has ever been, often calls for this touch. Just to be more ornamental, the topaz sometimes chooses a setting of black enamel and rhinestones.

The trend to higher necklines, that close more tightly around the throat than the summer mode expected them to do, suggests brooch pins, since there isn't always room for choker beads. They are returning in a decidedly popular manner.

Red is a good color for autumn. It is a sparkling, vibrant shade that is most used, not a flamboyant, gaudy tone. Jewelry set with red stones such as garnets and rubies is suggested by authorities for wear with the new red colored frocks.

Costume jewelry, to make an ensemble as perfect as it should be, should bear out the leading color tone of the costume. If you are wearing a soft raspberry pink frock, rose quartz set in gold will add a trick or two to its appeal. Rose quartz will do this for red, also. Carnelian harmonizes perfectly with the red-brown tendencies.

Natural gold for settings is taking precedence over silver and white gold. If you have put away some rings for bracelets because they had an old-fashioned golden air about them, start to wear them. Even wedding rings of yellow gold are considered smart again.

If you want beads with your higher necks, a new flat choker of metal or colored compositions is inexpensive and attractive. Sleeves are attracting the most attention in the new fall silhouette. They are enormous things, for the most part, that cultivate puffs or raglans. But just the same bracelets are insisting on getting into the picture, too. Beaded bracelets, formed of several strands, or metal bracelets, are leading the arm movement.

Color is the most important thing to consider in making your purchases. Choose the stones that will go with your frock or suit. For after all, your bracelets and beads and clips are just part of your ensemble.

The durene embroidered mousseline frock shown at left presents a simple neckline that demands ornamentation in the form of a flat choker necklace. Additional jewelry in the form of earrings, a clip and a large stone ring set off the gown. A brooch for the Vionnet type neckline shown on the suit of fabric, durene knit, at right, and a sports style crystal bracelet are all that are needed for this suit.
